

Biography

Dr. Glenn Hammel is a clinical neuropsychologist and a specialist in issues related to aging. His work frequently focuses on protecting the elderly from interpersonal manipulation, assessing capacity, and balancing an elderly individual's right of autonomy with society's duty to protect them.

Dr. Hammel was appointed by the California State Senate to the Council on Mentally Ill Offenders. He has been a speaker on issues related to aging sponsored by organizations such as the American Society on Aging, the U.S. Attorney's Office, the Professional Fiduciaries Association, and the 9th Circuit Court of appeals. He has guest lectured at academic institutions including the University of California, Northeastern University, and Golden Gate University Law School. He recently was the keynote speaker at conferences on financial crime and the aged in San Francisco and North Carolina. He is a coauthor of the current edition of the Continuing Education of the Bar Press' Action Guide Capacity and Undue Influence: Assessing, Challenging, and Defending.
